JOB PERFORMANCE RATINGS: NAPOLITANO SAILS HIGH WHILE LEGISLATURE SPRINGS A LEAK BUSH AND MCCAIN SLIP WHILE KYL RECOVERS AFTER THE BRUISING 2006 ELECTION

Phoenix, Arizona, March 28, 2007. Governor Janet Napolitano is given favorable job ratings by 62 percent of Arizonans, including 78 percent of Democrats, 69 percent of Independents and an impressive 51 percent of Republicans. Only ten percent of the public thinks she is doing a poor job, including only 20 percent of Republicans. These are Napolitano's best job ratings ever and stand in strong contrast to the views the public has of the job performance of the State Legislature for which only 28 percent give good ratings.

One of the extraordinary aspects of the Governor's equity with the public is the high levels of approval (all in excess of 65 percent) that she receives from key voter groups such as women, voters over 55 and retirees, middle and upper income families, likely voters, college graduates and from families at the lowest end of the income spectrum. Her appeal with voters registered as Independents is very impressive and suggests that she may be the first major politician in Arizona to pursue policies and have a political style that resonate well with these increasingly important voters.

Job ratings for State Attorney General Terry Goddard are stable: 42 percent favorable to only six percent unfavorable. Over the past 30 years we have measured the job approval ratings of both Democratic and Republican attorney generals and we rarely see positive scores rise above 45 percent. This is due principally to the lesser awareness the public has of people holding this office.

U.S. Senator John McCain lost a little more ground as his approval rating for the first time in 12 years fell below 50 percent. Even so, his ratings remain 2.5 to one favorable (49 to 18%). U.S. Senator John Kyl's positive rating continue to recover after last year's election, now at 46 to 12 percent favorable. Senator John McCain's ratings slipped to 46 percent from 50 percent over the same period. Senator McCain's ratings have been in a semi-freefall since 2004 when 70 percent rated his performance favorably. His current ratings are the lowest since 1986. Constituencies which seem most to be drifting away from McCain include men, retirees, minorities and voters outside of Maricopa county.

- MORF -

Finally President George W. Bush has the lowest popularity ratings registered for him since he assumed the office. Today, only 32 percent say his performance is "Good" while 40 percent say he is doing a "poor job" in the White House. Mr. Bush's popularity has simply collapsed among women (28%), upper income families (30%), Democrats (14%), Independents (23%) and ethnic minorities (all under 21%).

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Rocky Mountain Poll Arizona (2007-II-03) is based on 600 telephone interviews with voters across Arizona, conducted from March 10th to March 21st, 2007. In the overall sample, one may say with 95 percent certainty that the results have a statistical precision of plus or minus 3.9 percent of what they would have been had the entire adult population been surveyed. The Republican sample includes 251 voters and the Democrat sample 214 voters. The margin of error for each of these sub-samples is plus or minus 6.3 percent. The Rocky Mountain Poll is conducted by the Behavior Research Center of Arizona and is an independent and non-partisan research program.

This statement conforms to the principles of disclosure of the National Council on Public Polls.
